

Welcome to Wellington and The Wrekin Forest

This map and guide is designed to help you find your way around the town, giving an idea of some of the town's historic features and modern facilities. The walk routes lead you onto The Wrekin, part of the Shropshire Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, and also features some walks to the north of the town.

In mediaeval times Wellington was known as 'Wellington Under the Wrekin' and can trace its Market Charter to 1244. Today it is a traditional market town centred in its Conservation Area around the Market Square and historic quarter. It enjoys a good selection of specialist independent shops including a large indoor market (open Tues, Thurs, Fri, Sat) and a variety of places of worship. Wellington boasts a range of cafes, restaurants, and pubs - including micro breweries - as well as a town centre leisure facility with large swimming pool and well stocked library.

For arts enthusiasts, there is the newly opened 'Wellington

Orbit' - a state of the art cinema, café and community arts hub and the Belfry Theatre has a good range of live performances. If you look up to some of the windows in the Market Square you can see some historic Wellingtonians looking down and the charming 'Makers Dozen Trail' - murals throughout the town which illustrate Wellington's heritage, its craftsmen, artisans and manufacturers (murals locations marked on the map) - has recently been unveiled.

To anyone interested in geography, geology, biology, ecology, archaeology, wildlife or just walking and enjoying the scenery then Wellington, with the Dothill Nature Reserve and The Wrekin Forest, is ideal. There is plenty to do with bike trails, footpaths and nature walks aplenty. The wooded ridge of the Wrekin rises south of Wellington, offering fantastic views, a challenging but manageable climb and beautiful natural surroundings close to town. It is understandably much loved.

Nearby attractions include Ironbridge - the birthplace of the Industrial Revolution, the Roman city of Viroconium (Wroxeter) and the 'new town' of Telford. Half hidden away are many more interesting places well worth exploring, especially on the Weald Moors, including a Bronze Age lake village (Wall), the world's first cast iron aqueduct and several high-tech factories.

Points of interest

The Wrekin Hillfort

The Wrekin fort first appeared in the Bronze Age around 3500 years ago and was rebuilt by Celts about 500 BC. It is believed to have been the 'capital' of the tribe the Romans called Cornovii, who lived in Shropshire and Cheshire. Although the hillfort has not been used for 2,000 years it is still visible. It is a Scheduled Monument and the home of our ancestors, so please treat it well. See 'Archaeology of the Welsh Marches' by Stan Stanford and 'The Wrekin Hill' by Allan Frost.

The Wrekin Hills - Geology

The rocks which form the Wrekin are millions of years old - they predate the Himalayas, Alps and Andes and contain a huge variety of rock types. Many are ancient 'Uriconian' volcanic rock and are some of the earliest example of shelly fossils formed thousands of miles south of the Equator arriving here propelled by plate tectonics. See 'Geology in Shropshire' by Peter Toghill.

The Woodlands - Ownership

Much of the woodlands are privately owned. Telford and Wrekin Council and Shropshire Wildlife Trust own the remaining land in the Erccall and Lawrence Hill area. All the paths marked are either public or permissive; if you don't stray you're quite legal but remember that owners, farmers, foresters and golfers have rights as well as we do.

The Legend of the Wrekin Giant

Legend has it that the Wrekin was created by a giant. He had been planning to drop a spadefull of earth on the River Severn in order to flood Shrewsbury but was dissuaded by a canny cobbler who told him it was still far, far away. Tired and despondent the giant dropped the earth, forming the Wrekin, and turned back.

Sunnycroft

A jewel in Wellington's crown is this rare suburban villa and mini estate which is maintained by the National Trust. An Edwardian time capsule, with original contents and features, transports you back to the pre-First World War 'country-house' lifestyle. Sunnycroft tells the story of a brewer, a widow, and three generations of a Wellington industrialist family. Open throughout the year. nationaltrust.org.uk/sunnycroft or call 01952 242884.

Wrekin Forest Walks

A To the Top of The Wrekin
 (7 miles/11 km climbing over 1300 feet/396 metres - Roads, paths, no stiles)

1. From the station ticket office walk up towards the Market Square.
2. Turn left and go through the Square, keeping to the L of the b&w building. At the end of the pedestrian area bear slight L into Tan Bank. At the top, cross the main road and use the pedestrian access to rejoin Tan Bank. After about 30 metres take the brick footpath on the R. Cross the next road (Roseway) and continue passing allotments on R and Sunnycroft (National Trust) on the L. Cross the road via the pelican crossing then continue up Golf Links Lane until just before the motorway bridge.
3. Turn R, bear L uphill after crossing the metal footbridge and continue until you reach the next road. Turn L and cross over the M54 to where Ercall Wood begins (There is a small car park on the L). Take the path on the L of the road until it rejoins Ercall Lane near to the Buckatree Hall Hotel. Walk carefully along the road until the next road junction (Forest Glen).
4. Cross the road and go through a large gate into the wood. Follow the main track uphill until it bends sharp R.
5. Turn R and continue upwards towards the Halfway House (At busy times light refreshments are on sale here). Continue on the path uphill which turns to the L and rises steeply up the ridge. At Hell Gate you enter the hill fort. The track climbs to Heaven Gate, from where it is almost level to the top. Here you'll find a trig point and a toposcope.
6. Return to Forest Glen & Wellington the same way or take any of the other routes on the map.

B Around The Wrekin
 (7.5 miles/12 km - Roads, paths, 1 stile)

- Follow the first four paragraphs of the description of Walk A.
1. At the sharp bend leave the main track and go straight on. After about a mile, take the right fork onto the signed permissive path. Cross the path that goes very steeply up to the summit. (Alternatively, turn R here to ascend to the very steep path to the summit and then follow the main route down to the Forest Glen).
 2. Continue straight ahead, descending to the next junction then turn R onto the public footpath. Bear L when the path forks and continue, passing the old rifle range, to eventually join the road. Turn R. At the T-junction, cross the road and take the stile straight ahead. Continue past the reservoir then turn R onto a wide track towards the road.
 3. Turn left to the Buckatree Hall Hotel and onwards to Wellington.

C Ercall Wood Nature Reserve
 (4 miles/6.5 km - Roads, paths, no stiles)

- Follow the first two paragraphs of Walk A.
1. Continue under the bridge and turn R over the footbridge. Bear L into the wood following the orange Shropshire Way markers up the hill. At the T-junction near the top bear L onto the descending path leading to the quarries. (For the alternative shorter path avoiding the very steep climb: turn R here leading uphill to the ridge and turn right. Continue following the instructions from "C1" below).
 2. Shortly before the gate onto the road, take the path on the R down steps to a footbridge. Cross the footbridge and turn R (For another alternative for a return that avoids the very steep climb: Turn L to the Buckatree Hall Hotel and Ercall Lane. At the road turn R and follow the route of Walk A as it gradually descends to Wellington).
 3. After a short distance bear L up the hill. Where the path levels turn R and follow the very steep path uphill. Bear left at the blue waymarks and continue uphill to the summit following the ridge (option? - picking up the pink T50 waymarks). (C1) continue straight on down the ridge and bearing R to eventually rejoin your outward path and retrace your steps to Wellington

D Limekiln Wood
 (5 miles/8 km - Roads, lanes, paths, no stiles)

- Follow the first two paragraphs of Walk A.
1. Continue under the bridge and take the steps on the L to the path alongside the M54. Bear R, to the edge of the golf course and continue uphill keeping tight to the boundary on your L. Bear L beneath the mound of the 17th Tee to enter Limekiln Wood and continue past reservoirs on the L until you reach the 2nd turning on the R. (The alternative shorter walk below leaves here).
 2. Continue straight on to Steeraway Farm then turn R. (The New Works "Walk E" leaves the main path after approx. 1/4 mile).
 3. Continue uphill on for approx. 3/4 mile. At the T-junction, take the downhill track on the R. Pass the former quarry entrance on your R then turn R between two rocks (marked the Hutchison Way). Eventually bear L over the golf course then R on the descending bridleway. Carry on straight past the golf club house (the shorter route rejoins here from the R) to the road down to the bridge. Retrace your steps to Wellington.

Shorter Alternative: At the end of paragraph 1 above, turn R uphill and follow the Hutchison Way until it leaves the central path. Turn R still following the Hutchison Way markers until you reach the T-junction. Turn R to rejoin the route above back to Wellington. The total length of this alternative walk is approximately 3 miles (5 km).

E New Works
 (6.5 miles/10.5 km - Roads, lanes, paths, 4 stiles)

- Follow the first 2 paragraphs of Walk A and the first 2 of Walk D.
1. At the staggered junction turn L, cross a stile, then pass a reservoir on R. Continue across a field and climb a stile into woodlands. Continue past the Iron Spring, cross a track then climb a stile into more woodland up a steep path to another stile to leave the woodland. (Note: See the WVAW guide "Exploring New Works" for details of the network of paths at New Works).
 2. Bear R and follow the short winding path to a stoned track. Turn L then keep straight on towards the car park entrance. Turn hard R through a gate and follow the bridleway to the end of the fencing. Keep straight on then bear L then R and follow the footpath to a T-junction. Turn L and use the kissing gate ahead to reach the road.
 3. Turn R onto the road then R again at the T-junction. Follow the road to reach the entrance to Smalley Hill Local Nature Reserve set back on the L.
 4. Continue along the road until you reach a layby on R. Go through the gate and follow the stoned path as it bends round to the L. Ignore the R turn and continue to a gate into Limekiln Wood. Turn L to rejoin Walk D at the end of paragraph 2.
